AFTER TEN YEARS.

Romantic Meeting of a Husband and Wife in Salt Lake.

From the Salt Lake Tribune.

The old story that romance in real life are oftentimes stranger than the fiction which writers weave for books, was recently exemplified in this city. It was no less than the meeting of a husband and wife after ten years of separation. The circumstances of the case, as learned by a Tribune reporter from the husband, are as follows: Twelve years ago Henry L. Wallace was married in New York City, and being a man of liberal means, took his wife to Europe. They made a two years' tour on the continent, and then returned to Liverpool, from whence they expected to sail for America. Wallace and his wife took state rooms in the steamer, and after going on board Wallace recalled the fact that the servant girl at the hotel who had acted as nurse girl for his child had not, in the hurry of leaving, been paid. As there were still two hours before the steamer sailed he concluded to go back and pay the nurse, lest she might mention the matter to other guests and a bad impression of his financial integrity be created.
He started for the hotel, and on his way was roughly jostled by a stranger. Turning upon him he demanded to know why he was insulted, when some hot words passed and he knocked the man down.
The police rushed in and arrested both men. At the station house the man whom he had knocked down charged him with attempting to pick his pocket. He tried to explain that his wife and child were on the steamer, and finally offered a thousand dollars to let him go, but it was of no avail, and the story of the steamer was only looked upon as a fabrication to deceive the police. When he was searched no money was found on his person except a few shillings in silver, having left it with his wife. This fact, taken in connection with his offer of $1,000 for his release, made it all the more suspicious. While he was being examined in the office of the Chief of Police, a dispatch came from London, directing the detectives to arrest a counterfeiter who was about to sail on the steamer. The description answered almost exactly for Wallace and he was locked up.
He sent word to the hotel, and the keeper of the house called upon him, Wallace begged the man to identify him, but the reply was:

"I only know that you stopped a few days at my house, and when you left you didn't pay a nurse girl whom you hired.
What do I know of your antecedents?" That the bill due the nurse girl, which was the cause of all the trouble should be used against him was a crushing blow, and when his trial came off the London detectives swore that they believed he was the counterfeiter wanted, but there was not sufficient proof to convict. The man whom he knocked down swore stoutly that he had attempted to pick his pocket, and he was sentenced for two years. In the meantime the steamer sailed bearing his wife and child. Mrs. Wallace remembering the excuse he had made to leave the steamer, presently began to imagine, as many women might do under the circumstances, that he took this method of deserting her, and after reaching New York gave up all hopes of ever seeing him again. She had considerable money, however, and finally came West. She lived in San Francisco for several years and lost nearly all she had in stocks. She came to Salt Lake with her child, and took in sewing and fancy needlework, barely making a living. After Wallace had served his term in Liverpool he spent two years in trying to get something to do, and finally had to work in a rope maker's establishment to earn money enough to reach America, coming in an emigrant ship. After reaching New York he met some of his old friends; explaining his misfortunes, he got a start in the world again, and making a good deal of money, he tried to find his wife, but was unable to do so. He went to Colorado two years ago, invested luckily in mines, and made considerable money. Last week he came to Salt Lake, and while at the Walker House with a friend, the conversation turned upon the prosy subject of good fitting shirts. Said the friend: "There is a widow woman up street who makes my shirts. I gave her my measure and they fit to a charm and last longer than any store shirt I ever wore. If you want some good shirts come with me."

Wallace agreed and the two went up to the widow woman's.

"Same name as yours, by the way," said the man as he approached the house. He introduced Wallace as a friend who wanted some shirts made. The two looked at each other. The woman gave a big long scream and then there was the usual tableau, which would require considerable work to properly describe. Wallace found his wife and also his little baby, the latter grown to girlhood. These are the simple facts of a remarkable case, but the full history of the wanderings of the separated couple would make a book. The two left for New York on Tuesday last.

New York Newspaper Offices Destroyed by Fire.

Special to DAILY BULLETIN.

CINCINNATI, O., February 1, 1882.—The fire at New York yesterday was much more destructive than at first reported. The newspaper offices entirely burned are the Scientific American, New York Observer, Scotch-American Journal, Pettin-gill's Advertising Agency and Turf, Field and Farm, Forest and Stream and the old World office. Buildings were also burned belonging to Leggs Bros. & Co., J. W. Thompson, Charles Meyer, Nash & Cook and the New York Rubber Company, the largest of the kind in the world. The New York Times office was partly burned. A number of persons were burned to death or fatally injured by leaping from the burning buildings.

The Sub-Committee of the committee on Ways and Means, who have had under consideration all the bills on the subject of a revision of the tariff laws, have decided to recommend to the full committee, a bill to appoint a commission to be composed of nine persons whose duty it is made to make the needed changes in the laws. The bill in substance is the same as that presented by Senator Morrill, of Vermont, and is to be presented to the full committee some time this week. The persons comprising the Commission will be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate from civil life. They are to receive $10 a day while engaged in the active discharge of their duties and all traveling and other necessary expenses. It is made the duty of these commissioners to take into consideration and to thoroughly investigate all the various questions relating to the agricultural, commercial, mercantile, manufacturing, mining and industrial interests of the United States so far as the same may be necessary to the establishment of a judicious tariff or a revision of the present tariff, and the existing revenue laws, upon a basis just to all the various interests, and for the purpose of making the work of the commission as thorough as possible, it is empowered to have witnesses before it and to visit such different portions and sections of the country as it may deem advisable. The commissioners are required to report the result of their labors to Congress not later than January, 1883.

Dr. Frazier's Root Bitters.

Frazier's Root Bitters are not a dram-shop whisky beverage, but are strictly medicinal in every sense. They act strongly upon the liver and kidneys, keep the bowels open and regular, make the weak strong, heal the lungs, build up the nerves and cleanse the blood and system of every impurity.

For dizziness, rush of blood to the head, tending to apoplexy, dyspepsia, fever and ague, dropsy, pimples and blotches, serofulous humors and sores, tetter, ring worm, white swelling, erysipelas, sore eyes and for young men suffering from weakness or debility caused from imprudence, and to females in delicate health, Frazier's Root Bitters are especially recommended.

Dr. Frazier: I have used two bottles of your Root Bitters for dyspepsia, dizziness, weakness and kidney disease, and they did me more good than the doctors and all the medicine I ever used. From the first dose I took I began to mend, and I am now in perfect health, and feel as well as I ever did. I consider your medicine one of the greatest blessings.

To know how all the "little tads," Do stand, "for sure and certain," Consult the list we herewith give,
Procured from Doctor Martain.
Some, you see, have studied well
And kept straight, to the letter,
And some—well, concerning that,
The less we say the better.

A new trial was granted Tuesday, in the case of Frank Day, charged with house-breaking.

Within the past month more than two thousand persons have been vaccinated in this city.

It is announced from Pittsburg that only a light run of coal will be made on the present rise in the river.

HUNT & DOYLE have taken the agency for the celebrated "Domestic" Paper Patterns; they will be on sale by the middle of this month. fl-2wd.

The celebrated Domestic Paper Patterns can hereafter be obtained from Messrs. Hunt & Doyle, who have obtained the agency for them in this city. They will have a full line of these patterns, not later than the middle of the month.

MR. ALBERT expects to move into his new store the latter part of next week. It is to be one of the most attractive establishments in the city, and will be ample for his extensive business, having been recently enlarged by the removal of the stair-case at the side of the building.

Is there a suitable pest house prepared to be used in the event of a visitation by small-pox? If not we suggest that it would be a good precautionary measure for the city authorities to give their attention to the matter. At the coming meeting of the council the subject ought to be considered.

We cannot too strongly urge upon our people the necessity of being vaccinated at once. If they fail to avail themselves of the only method of staying the ravages of small-pox, in the event of its appearance here, the fault is with themselves, as vaccination has fully proved to be the only true means of preventing the spread of this horrible disease. It threatens to become epidemic at Cincinnati, and it is not unreasonable to expect its appearance here at any moment. Those who cannot afford to pay for vaccination, by calling upon any of the physicians, residing in this city, can have the service rendered free of charge. We urge upon every one to be vaccinated immediately.

BATCHELDER'S

Ventilated Egg Case.

Patented February 15, 1881.

Indispensible to Merchants Shippers And Producers.

The outside frame of this case contains five trays, held in place by fasteners at end of case, as seen in cut. These trays are constructed in reversible halves. The above cut shows one whole tray filled ready to be placed in case, each egg resting in its cardboard socket in such a manner as to be readily coated, candied, or transferred from tray to tray or, else in case, without rebalancing.

For each storage this case will store 60 dozen with racks made to receive the half trays, hence this is the cheapest storage case manufactured, saving largely in space.

The manner of holding the eggs on end prevents oscillation, adding, or bruising, and adds greatly to their freshness when carried long in storage. Size of 30 dozen No. 1 cases 25x12x14, weighs 20 pounds.

Dor.

From Another Correspondent.

On the evening of the January 28th the Germantown Dramatic Club gave their long promised entertainment in the Town Hall at this place, and "She Stoops to Conquer," was thoroughly enjoyed by the large and appreciative audience there assembled. The house was well lighted, the stage ingeniously arranged to represent the old English manor house; and the costumes procured for the occasion from a furnishing house in Cincinnati quite elegant.

The dramatic personae were as follows:
Sir Charles Marlow.....James Pollock
Young Marlow.....J. A. Walton
Mr. Hardestie.....J. C. Kackley
Tony Lumpkin.....John Pollett
Mr. Hastings.....Ed. F. Walton
Roger.....J. R. Walton
Digory.....G. Holton
Miss Hardestie.....Miss Mary
Miss Neville.....Miss Fannie Walton
Mrs. Hardestie.....Miss Hardin

Where art has so little and nature so large a share in the acting of our young amateurs, it is hard to make a distinction and say which was best; especially where all were good. But in Mr. Hardestie, the fine old English gentleman showing forth the best qualities of his caste, both the hospitable host, and anxious father; were quite true to nature and equally well rendered.

Mrs. Hardestie too—the bright-eyed ready tongued, fashion loving spouse; the doating mother, of an unworthy son—often rose above expectation and never fell below it. Young Marlow in his difficult character of double lover.

"So bashful, yet so bold I ween When e'er he met the wine cup's queen,"

Won much applause; particularly his personation of the bashful lover which delighted all who saw and heard it. Miss Hardestie with her deversity of manner and pretty acting was very engaging, and stooped to conquer more than one among the audience. Miss Neville's beauty won her much sympathy in her love trouble—while her inimitable cousin Tony, made the audience equally happy with himself on coming into his fortune and of age.

But I cannot particularize all, and will only say further that the evening was very enjoyable as well as thoroughly successful, in every particular, and we hope soon to be invited to spend another evening equally as pleasing and in the same good company.

THE SUN.

NEW YORK 1882.

The Sun for 1882, will make its fifteenth annual revolution under the present management, as always, for all, big and little, mean and gracious, contented and unhappy, Republican and Democratic depraved and virtuous, intelligent and obtuse. The Sun's light is for mankind and womankind of every sort, but its genial warmth is for the good, while it pours hot discomfort on the blistering backs of the persistently wicked.

The Sun of 1863 was a newspaper of a new kind. It discarded many of the forms, and a multitude of the superfluous words and phrases of ancient journalism. It undertook to report in a fresh, succinct, unconventional way all the news of the world, omitting no event of human interest, and commenting upon affairs with the fearlessness of absolute independence. The success of this experiment was the success of the Sun.

It effected a permanent change in the style of American newspapers. Every important journal established in this country in the dozen years past has been modelled after the Sun. Every important journal already existing has been modified and bettered by the force of the Sun's example.

The Sun of 1882, will be the same outspoken, truth-telling, and interesting newspaper.

By a liberal use of the means which an abundant prosperity affords, we shall make it better than ever before.

We shall print all the news, putting it into readable shape, and measuring its importance, not by the traditional yardstick, but by its real interest to the people. Distance from Printing House Square is not the first consideration with the Sun. Whenever anything happens worth reporting we get the particulars, whether it happens in Brooklyn or in Bokhara.

In politics we have decided opinions, and are accustomed to express them in language that can be understood. We say what we think about men and events. That habit is the only secret of the Sun's political course.

The Weekly Sun gathers into eight pages the best matter of the seven daily issues. An Agricultural Department of the unequalled merit, full market reports, and a liberal proportion of literary, scientific and domestic intelligence complete the Weekly Sun, and make it the best newspaper for the farmer's household that was ever printed.

Who does not know and read and like the Sunday Sun, each number of which is a Goldenrod of interesting literature, with the poetry of the day, prose every line worth reading, news, humor—matter enough to fill a good-sized book, and infinitely more varied and entertaining than any book, big or little?

If our idea of what a newspaper should be pleases you, send for the Sun.

Our terms are as follows:

For the daily Sun, a four-page sheet of twenty-eight columns, the price by mail, is 55 cents a month, or $6.50 a year, or including the Sunday paper, an eight-page sheet of fifty-six columns, the price is 65 cents per month, or $7.50 a year, postage paid.

The Sunday edition of the Sun is also furnished separately at $1.20 a year, postage paid.

The price of the Weekly Sun, eight pages, fifty-six columns, is $1 a year, postage paid. For clubs of ten sending $10 we will send an extra copy free.
